Local Governments and Ngos in the South

By B. Reichel

GRIN Verlag. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 72 pages. Dimensions: 8.3in. x 5.8in. x 0.2in. Masters Thesis from the year 2007 in the subject Politics - International Politics - Topic: Development Politics, grade: 60-70, University of Manchester (Institute of Development Politics and Management (IDPM)), course: Development Management, language: English, comment: 60-70 (Merit) entspricht im dt. Notensystem eine 2. , abstract: The dissertation critically discusses the partnership between local governments and Southern NGOs (meaning local NGOs in developing countries), specifically looking at the effects that a close cooperation can have on the poor. Through the analysis of the key literature and selected case studies the argument is developed that fostering a certain type of partnership under favourable conditions may contribute to poverty reduction efforts in a local context. The paper examines the interaction between the two actors in the decision-making and implementation process of public policies, mainly drawing on the concept of good local governance. Here, ideas of decentralisation and civil society play an important role and nowadays often constitute an integral part of poverty reduction programmes in developing countries. The first chapter of the dissertation focuses on this linkage between local governance (including NGO participation) and improvements in public policy outcomes...
