Sketcher was sentenced to life in a corporate maximum detention facility following his graduation. Mr. Sketcher claims he was still reeling from student debt and excessive campus capers when he applied for the J.O.B. and had no real idea as to what he was doing or getting in to. Having received an MS in BS, he is now required to report 5-7 days per week to the corporate institution, is not allowed overtime pay and is forbidden to come in contact with sunlight during his daily incarceration. As he progressed from fish to first line management, he was required to attend more and more meetings and watch his time and productivity being slowly sucked away. After being disciplined for applying realistic eye stickers to his eyelids and sleeping through the strategic retreats, he began sketching coffee cups, water pitchers and candy dishes during mundane meetings to keep from ripping off his paisley tie and dashing through the lobby screaming like a lunatic. After his penguin sketches were confiscated by an overpaid consultant and presented to the entire management staff for ridicule, whereby some of his enemies did question their actual likeness to anything organic, Mr. Sketcher took his drawing more seriously and made attempts to conceal his artistic urges. Meeting Sketcher Notebooks combine meeting madness with art and inspiration. Scientific studies prove that doodling does increase creativity, information retention and decreases stress. If you are sentenced to an 8 to 5, Meeting Sketchers will help you do the time. Sketch On !.
